(例) The thing they chose is paper.

Thanks to paper, people can keep a record easily. By making a record on paper, people don't have to remember everything. They can make records about things which happened or things which they heard.

Paper made sharing ideas among people easier. Paper is light, so it's easy to carry it. Especially in old times, without paper, it was difficult to send their ideas to others who lived far away.

Paper has become the material used for making products we often use. For example, boxes made of paper are used everywhere. Our lives wouldn't be convenient if we didn't use paper as the material for such products.

Please look at Part A. In this part of the listening test, you will hear five conversations between Erika and James. You will hear each conversation twice. After listening to each conversation twice, you will hear a question. Each question will be read only once and you must choose one answer. Now begin.

- 1 Erika: James, I heard you finally went to the art museum you wanted to visit. How was it?
James: Well, Erika, it was so good that I couldn't find words to express how good it was.

Question: What does James mean?

- 2 James: Erika, thank you for checking the poster I made for the event. Is there anything I should improve?
Erika: It looks quite attractive, James. But it will be better if you change some parts.
James: Please let me know which parts I should change.
Erika: I underlined a few parts. I think the size of the letters in those parts should be larger, because those parts include important information. I also circled words with spelling mistakes.

Question: Which is true about this conversation?

- 3 James: Erika, the man jogging over there is your grandfather, right?
Erika: Yes, James. He goes jogging every morning. I can't believe he is 70.
James: Wow, I will probably not be able to run when I reach that age.
Erika: He says age doesn't count. He says having a strong will counts.
James: I really respect him.

Question: Which is true about this conversation?

- 4 Erika: James, I'm sorry I couldn't join the volunteer activity on Sunday.
James: It's OK, Erika. You couldn't miss your sister's piano concert.
Erika: Yeah. Did all the other friends you invited come to the activity?
James: Well, I asked six other friends in my class, but Lisa and Kent couldn't come. The other four came.
Erika: Oh, you needed more people for the activity. You said you needed more than six people for the activity, right?
James: Oh, actually, three of my friends from the soccer team also came.
Erika: That's good. I will certainly join next time.

Question: How many friends of James came to the volunteer activity on Sunday?

- 5 James: What are you doing, Erika?
Erika: Hi, James. I'm making a speech for my English class.
James: Oh, I'm sorry if I stopped your work.
Erika: No problem. Well, if you have time, can you help me organize my ideas?
James: I'm happy to help you.
Erika: Thank you. I'm going to talk about a person I respect. I've chosen a woman my classmates probably don't know. I have several things that I want to say about her, but I'm not sure they include enough information.
James: Well, why don't you tell me about her?
Erika: OK. This person was very good at math at school. She later became a researcher and worked on a space project in America. Though she never went to space as an astronaut, she played an important role for astronauts who would go to space.
James: She sounds like a great person. I think your speech will be better with some examples. I also want to know why you respect the person in detail.

Question: Which is told by Erika about the person she respects?

Please look at Part B. In this part of the listening test, you will hear a part of a radio program. It will be spoken twice. After listening to it twice, you will hear two questions. Each question will be read only once and you must choose one answer. Now begin.

- 6 Hello, everyone. Thank you for listening to our program today. It's June 21st today and do you know what is special about today? Well, today is World Music Day. It's a day to enjoy various kinds of music. It's celebrated in more than 1,000 cities in about 120 countries. The countries include France, the U.S., Australia and India. Today, you can enjoy a variety of music in streets, parks and other public places. In various places, many free concerts are held for the audience.

Now, let's learn about the history of World Music Day. You may think it's a new event. Actually, the original idea of setting a day to celebrate music was suggested in France in 1976. Later, a survey showed that about 5 million people in France played a musical instrument. The number was about 9 percent of the population of the country at that time. The French government tried to find a way to let those people enjoy playing their music to other people. In 1982, France started a music festival which was open to all musicians including both professional musicians and people who were not professional. This was the first event of World Music Day.

You can join not only an event for World Music Day in your town but also one of the events held online. Online events let you experience live music shows that musicians are performing at that moment. You can probably find and enjoy a new kind of music that you have never heard before at the World Music Day event you join.

Question 1: Which is true about the history of World Music Day?

Question 2: Which is not true about the things the radio program said?

Please look at the test paper of Part C. First, please read the information about a presentation activity in the English class. You have half a minute. Now, begin to read.

[half a minute to read]

Stop reading. Now you are going to hear the conversation between James and Erika. They are talking about a presentation activity in the English class. You will hear their conversation and the question about it twice. When you are listening, you can take notes on the test paper about the things they say about a presentation activity in the English class. Now, listen to the conversation.

James: Hi, Erika. I'm your partner for the presentation activity in the English class, right?

Erika: Yes, James. Let's decide what to choose for the topic and prepare for the presentation.

James: Yeah, let's start now. First, what should we choose for the topic? Do you have any ideas?

Erika: Well, I have some ideas such as the Internet or computers, but many other students may choose those modern technologies.

James: You may be right. Why don't we choose something invented in old times?

Erika: That's a good idea. Oh, what do you think about paper?

James: Sounds interesting, but why do you think paper is an important thing that humans invented?

Erika: Well, thanks to paper, people can keep a record easily.

James: Oh, that's right. By making a record on paper, people don't have to remember everything. They can make records about things which happened or things which they heard.

Erika: I agree. So, this is one point to choose paper.

James: Yes. Also, paper made sharing ideas among people easier.

Erika: That's another point which explains why paper is an important thing that humans invented. Paper is light, so it's easy to carry it. Especially in old times, without paper, it was difficult to send their ideas to others who lived far away.

James: Exactly. These days we have devices like smartphones, but people didn't have such devices in old times.

Erika: I agree. For the third point, paper has become the material used for making products we often use.

James: Oh, that's true. For example, boxes made of paper are used everywhere. Our lives wouldn't be convenient if we didn't use paper as the material for such products. OK, I think we have enough points to explain why paper is an important thing. So, let's choose paper for the topic.

Erika: Yes. Paper is our choice. Now let's organize our ideas for the presentation.

Question: What is the thing James and Erika chose for the topic for their presentation? And, why do they think the thing is an important thing that humans invented? Write your answers for both questions in English.

You have six minutes to write. Now begin.
